

Group Pottery Workshops

Join us for a few memorable hours of creative fun in a relaxed atmosphere. Get messy together, throwing pots on the wheel and discover your hidden talents by painting ready-made pottery. No previous potting experience is necessary to create unique, usable pottery.

Anne Rimbault runs the workshops. A qualified potter who has been teaching for 40 years, and holds weekly morning and evening classes, hosts group Pottery Teambuilding Workshops, and produces wheel thrown porcelain for sale.

The workshops are designed to be relaxed, flexible and above all, fun. They take three hours, with half the time spent on the wheel and half the time painting. We'll start with a demonstration on the wheel, and everyone will have 1½ hours throwing. The thrown pots will be trimmed a few days after the workshop. Once dry, they will be bisc fired, and then clear glazed and refired. Everyone also spends 1½ hours painting an item of ready-made bisc-ware from our studio stock of hand thrown pottery. We have a selection of items such as mugs, goblets, bowls, jugs, vases etc to choose from. The painted pots will be bisc fired to set the colour, clear glazed and refired. All pots will be ready for collection about a month after the workshop.

The workshops will be held on Friday or Saturday, 9 – 12 or 1 – 4pm subject to availability.

The cost is R6000 per group of up to 10 participants.

Tea and coffee are included and you're welcome to bring your own drinks.

The studio is in Bordeaux, Randburg.

Limited times are available and advance booking is essential.

A 50% non-refundable deposit secures your reservation.

Please wear comfortable clothes and shoes which you don't mind messing in.

To reserve your place or for further information, please contact Anne Rimbault on anne@annerimbault.com . See our website at www.annerimbault.com